Science camp for ignited young minds at Mar Ivanios College

TNN | Jan 2, 2018, 11.52 PM IST

Thiruvananthapuram: Mar Ivanios College, Nalanchira, will be hosting a five-day science internship camp from Wednesday. The camp, titled 'Innovation in Science Pursuit for Inspired Research' (INSPIRE), is sponsored by the Union ministry of science and technology, and is organized to motivate and inspire young minds to take up science research.

The residential camp will have 150 participants, selected based on their Class X marks, from various higher secondary institutions in the state.

The camp is offered free of cost. All expenses including registration, travel and boarding will be taken care of by DST-INSPIRE programme. The camp will help youngsters discover their interests and talents.

Resource persons from renowned Indian institutions such as IIT, IIS, IISER, IIST, NIIST, etc. will conduct classes, giving students a platform to interact with the eminent scientists from different areas of expertise.

The camp will also focus on honing interpersonal and community skills by facilitating interactions with peers with similar abilities and interests.

Srinivasan Natarajan, professor of solid state and structural chemistry unit, IISc, will inaugurate the camp on Wednesday.

Professor Daniel Chellappa of the Bhabha Atomic Research Centre, Chennai, will deliver the keynote address. Mar Ivanios College principal Giji Thomas will preside over the function.
